PROP 65 STATEMENT OF COMPLIANCE

HANAYA strives to provide high quality and safe products for our customers. As part of our product regulatory compliance efforts, we continue to monitor potential regulatory, safety, health, and environmental impacts of using our products. With the best available information provided to us by our suppliers, HANAYA declares its compliance to California Proposition 65.

HANAYA products, upon review of the material composition and declaration forms, may contain Proposition 65 substances to a limited extent such as nickel use in plating. However, there is no intended exposure route such as skin contact or inhalation that come along with the products' applications. Proposition 65 warning signs are therefore not required for our products, having no dangers of exposure posed under normal product use.

California Proposition 65, officially known as the Safe Drinking Water and Toxic Enforcement Act of 1986, is an act that establishes the Proposition 65 list – an annually updated list of chemicals that are prohibited by the state from being released to the environment, due to the possibility of contaminating any California drinking water source. The full list of Proposition 65 substances and more information on this regulation can be viewed here: <https://oehha.ca.gov/proposition-65/proposition-65-list>

HANAYA continues to monitor its products and the supply chain for the requirements posed by the regulation.
